TURKISH CINEMA 2017
Erdem is at high school. The principle warns him to get a haircut so as to comply with school rules. When his parents also pressure him for the same reason, he finds himself in a dilemma because the girl he has his eye on likes his hair.

A woman runs over a dog in the middle of nowhere. Unhappily she cannot drive off. Her teenage son refuses to get back in car if she doesn't put the dog out of its agony.
Asphalt - Asfalt

A man and his pregnant wife are on their way to hospital in the back of a taxi, fearing that the woman may have miscarried. The places that the cab drives through seem to mirror the couple’s inner thoughts and feelings; in fact, in a sense these places become their inner world. As they head for the hospital, the birth stage of the life cycle is unfolding outside. On the way back, however, we have moved on to the death stage.

Dancer on the Snow - Karda Dans

A teenage boy gets lost in a snow-drenched village. His brother and acting teacher set out to find him.

Süleyman Demirel (1988) graduated from the Middle East Technical University with a degree in Foreign Language Teaching in 2010. He wrote his Master’s thesis on cinema and technology at the Ankara University Department of Journalism. He has directed three short films: Normal (2010), Vague (2012) and Take a Breath (2013). His films have been shown at over 100 film festivals worldwide.

Esra Saydam is based in Istanbul and New York. Her first feature, Across the Sea (2014), won the Audience Award at Slamdance FF and Best Director Award at both Milano IFF and the Adana Golden Boll FF. She is currently developing her second feature, Clown is Down, which has so far taken part in the !f Sundance Lab, Cine Qua Non Lab, IFP’S No Borders, Meetings on the Bridge and EAVE’s Ties That Bind Program.
The Garden - Bahçe

The story of a girl who spent her early childhood surrounded by nature, but then has to grow up in a big city... We meet the little girl in a garden with friends. The horns on her head symbolize her deep connection with the natural world. Time spent in the garden is full of joy, play, creativity and love. Here, the little girl learns how to love, feel, imagine, observe and do many other things.

Ground Level - Kot Farkı

Is it beyond the bounds of moral decency to ask to be paid at a funeral or simply a legitimate right? It was Sevim's job to nurse the old lady of the house, who has just died, and she is owed a month's wages. Sevim eventually finds the courage to quietly ask for her pay. But before she knows it, this upper middle-class family has turned the ‘issue’ into a big drama over who should pay the wages.

During the Spanish Civil War, the dictator Franco allowed Nazi forces to test their new war planes on the Basque town of Guernica. The bombardment caused carnage in the town. Within days, Picasso, who was in France at the time, was painting the giant image of Guernica, a canvas recognized as the world’s most important anti-war painting. This animation displays the destruction of the war.

Identity, language, sexual orientation, opinion: factors that generate invisible walls between people. Four different characters share their stories about confidence and insecurity!

During the 1990s, some 17,000 “unsolved” murders were committed in Turkey. The perpetrators of these murders belonged to counter insurgency organizations such as JİTEM (the intelligence and counter-terrorism arm of the gendarmerie). The murderers were invariably driving white Renault 12s (called Renault Toros in Turkey) and the cars became almost synonymous with unsolved murders. The film compares the production purposes of the vehicle in France with its uses in Turkey.

SHORT DOCUMENTARIES
A Day of a Ballerina - Balerinin Bir Günü

This documentary follows a 19-year-old ballerina who performs for the Antalya State Opera and Ballet. When she started ballet school at the age of four, she had no idea that ballet would take up her entire life. People know her stage persona in make-up and costume. Being applauded on stage is a huge thrill. She has left her family behind and traveled to big cities by herself.

A Whistle Comes from Away - Işılık

For centuries, the people of this village and the surrounding area have used whistling to communicate. The custom is a true form of language, but unfortunately was starting to die out. This documentary shows how “Uncle” Orhan, one of the more elderly villagers, has kept the age-old tradition alive by teaching it to local children.
The Bridge  - Köprü

The Bridge is a film about Istanbul, about the different textures and hallmarks of the city. It is a road movie of sorts, which explores the relationships between cab drivers in different parts of Istanbul, the city itself and its denizens.

Mehmet owns a coffee shop in an abandoned village, where only seven-eight residents are left. Every day, Mehmet travels for an hour from where he now lives to open the coffee shop. The coffee shop is the place where the remaining villagers hold on to the life. The life of the village depends on Mehmet’s coffee shop.

Fidelity - Vefa

Cansu Boğuşlu started taking photographs and telling stories in stills in 2006. She went on to graduate from the Cinematography Department of Lodz Film School with a Master’s degree and, during her studies, had a chance to make several short films and documentaries. Her short film, Wildflower, won various awards.

Baran Vardar (1990) earned an undergraduate degree in Statistics at Osmangazi University in Eskişehir. He then relocated to Ege University to study Cinema and Television. He combines his studies with work as a director and cinematographer on short films, documentaries, promotional and music videos.
As a profession, barbering is very much the preserve of men, especially in Turkey. But for the last 21 years, Serap Aykut has been cutting hair, giving shaves and trimming beards in Istanbul as a mold-breaking female barber.

This is the story of Bülent Erkan, who was born in Yedigöl village in İspirin, Erzurum. He used to make a living as a shepherd, but realizing that the wildlife in his homeland was diminishing by the day, he decided to take action on his own. He has since been dubbed “the son of the mountains”. He takes photos of wildlife and shares them on social media to raise awareness in the battle against poachers and misguided environmental policies.
Sulukule Mon Amour

Sulukule Mon Amour is a film about Gizem and Dina, two residents of Sulukule (a historic Istanbul quarter threatened by controversial redevelopment plans), their love for dance and quest for freedom through dancing. To them, dance is freedom, peace, being themselves and one of the best ways to unite.

Azra Deniz Okyay (1983) made her first short film at the age of 16. She moved to Paris to study Cinema at the Université Sorbonne-Nouvelle, where she completed first a BA, and then an MA. She also spent two years studying at EHESS (School for Advanced Studies in Social Sciences) as a free student, as well as working for Partizan Production and the Michel Gondry company as an assistant. She has made video art and music videos for French and Turkish bands.

FEATURE DOCUMENTARIES
Anatomy of a Defeat - Bir Yenilginin Anatomisi

This documentary focuses on the effects of urban renewal resulting from construction and development policy in Turkey. In particular, the director examines relationships between individuals, society and the state in today’s global capitalist world, with specific reference to the notion of “neighborhood”. The “mahalle” or neighborhood was the heart and soul of communal life in Seljuk and Ottoman societies, but has evolved into an almost unrecognizable form in modern Turkish life.

Baksı: From Utopia to Reality - Baksı: Ütopyadan Gerçeğe

An artist returns to his hometown to build and open a museum of contemporary art. The Baksı Museum, founded by Hüsamettin Koçan in the village of his birth, was awarded the Council of Europe Museum Prize in 2014. The museum is a cultural beacon in a landscape of impassable mountains at the crossroads of the eastern Black Sea region and northern Anatolia.

Hasan Özgen (1947) worked for TRT, the Turkish state broadcaster, between 1974-1982. He contributed to numerous programs as a cameraman, scriptwriter and assistant director. In 1987, he started his own film production company. He has since been directing environmental and cultural documentaries, some of which have won awards in national and international competitions.

Bahriye Kabadayı (1977) earned a Bachelor’s degree in Radio, Television and Cinema at Marmara University. She worked at VTR Film from 1997 to 2013 and has been actively involved in events organized by the Documentary Filmmakers’ Association (BSB) since 1997. She founded her own production company, Tarcın Film, in 2013.
Camel wrestling is a nomadic tradition that has been handed down through the generations for centuries. It still remains a popular winter entertainment among rural communities on the Aegean coast of Turkey. This documentary offers an insight into the lives of people who own wrestling camels as a passionate hobby.

Mihal Şişko is one of the oldest Greeks on Kınalıada, one of the Princes’ Islands in Istanbul. He began working as a sexton at the age of 10. He sees himself as ‘the last leaf on the tree’ of Istanbul’s Greek Turk community. The church connects him with his roots, his past and his mother tongue, but it is a struggle to sustain given the constantly shrinking community.

Sibel Mary Şamlı is a producer at MA Productions. After graduating from Leeds University, Sibel worked at an independent documentary production company as a director’s assistant. She went on to work on an international travel show, filming in over 12 countries. Holy Camel!: A True Love Story is her first feature documentary film.

Handan Erdil (1975) graduated from the Film and Television Program of Istanbul Bilgi University. She has worked for various television channels as a program director. She has been interested in documentaries for a while and continues to work in this field.
Lost Homeland - Kayıp Vatan

In the course of the 20th century, the Greek community, or “Rums”, of Istanbul found themselves having to leave the city where their roots lay. Some were deported, others eager to escape a lonely existence after losing family and friends. Yet they still had hopes for the new life that lay ahead. But settling in Athens, these Istanbul Greeks found their hopes challenged. Their only safe haven proved to be the Kosmeio Foundation.

The Touch - Dokunuş

Aziz Nesin, a brilliant writer, dissident, intellectual and humanist. This portrait of a man who constantly spoke up for democracy, freedom and peace celebrates his 100th birthday. The interview for the film was recorded in July 1993 just a few days after the Sivas massacre, which saw 32 intellectuals killed in a fire caused by a mob of religious fanatics. His words are just as valid and meaningful as they were 25 years ago.
